

Adult safeguarding for housing staff

12C) Safeguarding in housing for local authority social care staff

Transcript

Reflections from:
Elaine Cass – Social Care Institute for Excellence

Elaine Cass – I think it's important to improve safeguarding practice for all housing staff because there are so many vulnerable people living in social housing. Obviously there's supported housing, there's sheltered housing, and all those kinds of things where we know that vulnerable people are living in certain types of housing.

But in ordinary needs housing there are huge numbers of older people and people with disabilities who may be vulnerable to abuse and neglect.