

Activity

Find out more about one of the approaches or resources that sounds interesting in this feature.

Go to the organisation's website or ring up the organisation and ask them to send out information. Perhaps do a search on the internet for something as broad as 'dolls and dementia' and see where it leads you!

Is there a way in which your organisation could incorporate some of these approaches?

Some ideas to consider:

- it will probably help to focus on one or two new ideas or approaches
- two or three staff members could team up to find out more and report back to the team at a later date
- let other members of your staff team know about what you have found out – share what you have learned in a team meeting.
