
GP Toolkit Project: Applying the Mental Capacity Act in primary care.

- What do GP's need to know to help them work with the Mental Capacity Act in their day-to-day practice?
- How can advanced planning with primary care patients be better managed?
- Know a GP with a particular interest in this area of work?

These are the type of questions we are currently asking as we plan the development of a new toolkit for GP's commissioned by the Department of Health with the aim of supporting GPs to maximising individual capacity, apply the most recent guidelines on the assessment and best interest decision making.

The final toolkit is due to be submitted to the Department of Health at the end of March 2016 and will include a range of information, tools that can be used in practice, case study examples and checklists that can be utilised across primary care and general practice settings.
