

ALL OF THESE STUDENTS ARRIVED LATE AT SCHOOL TODAY.

One of them had to get their mum out of bed, make sure she had taken her medication and then get their younger brother off to school.

SOUND LIKE YOU?

You're not the only one. There are 175,000 young people in the UK who care for a family member. There could be up to 30 in this school.

You might be worried about letting people know what is going on at home. But there are plenty of people who understand why young people take up a caring role and know that you may want to carry on.

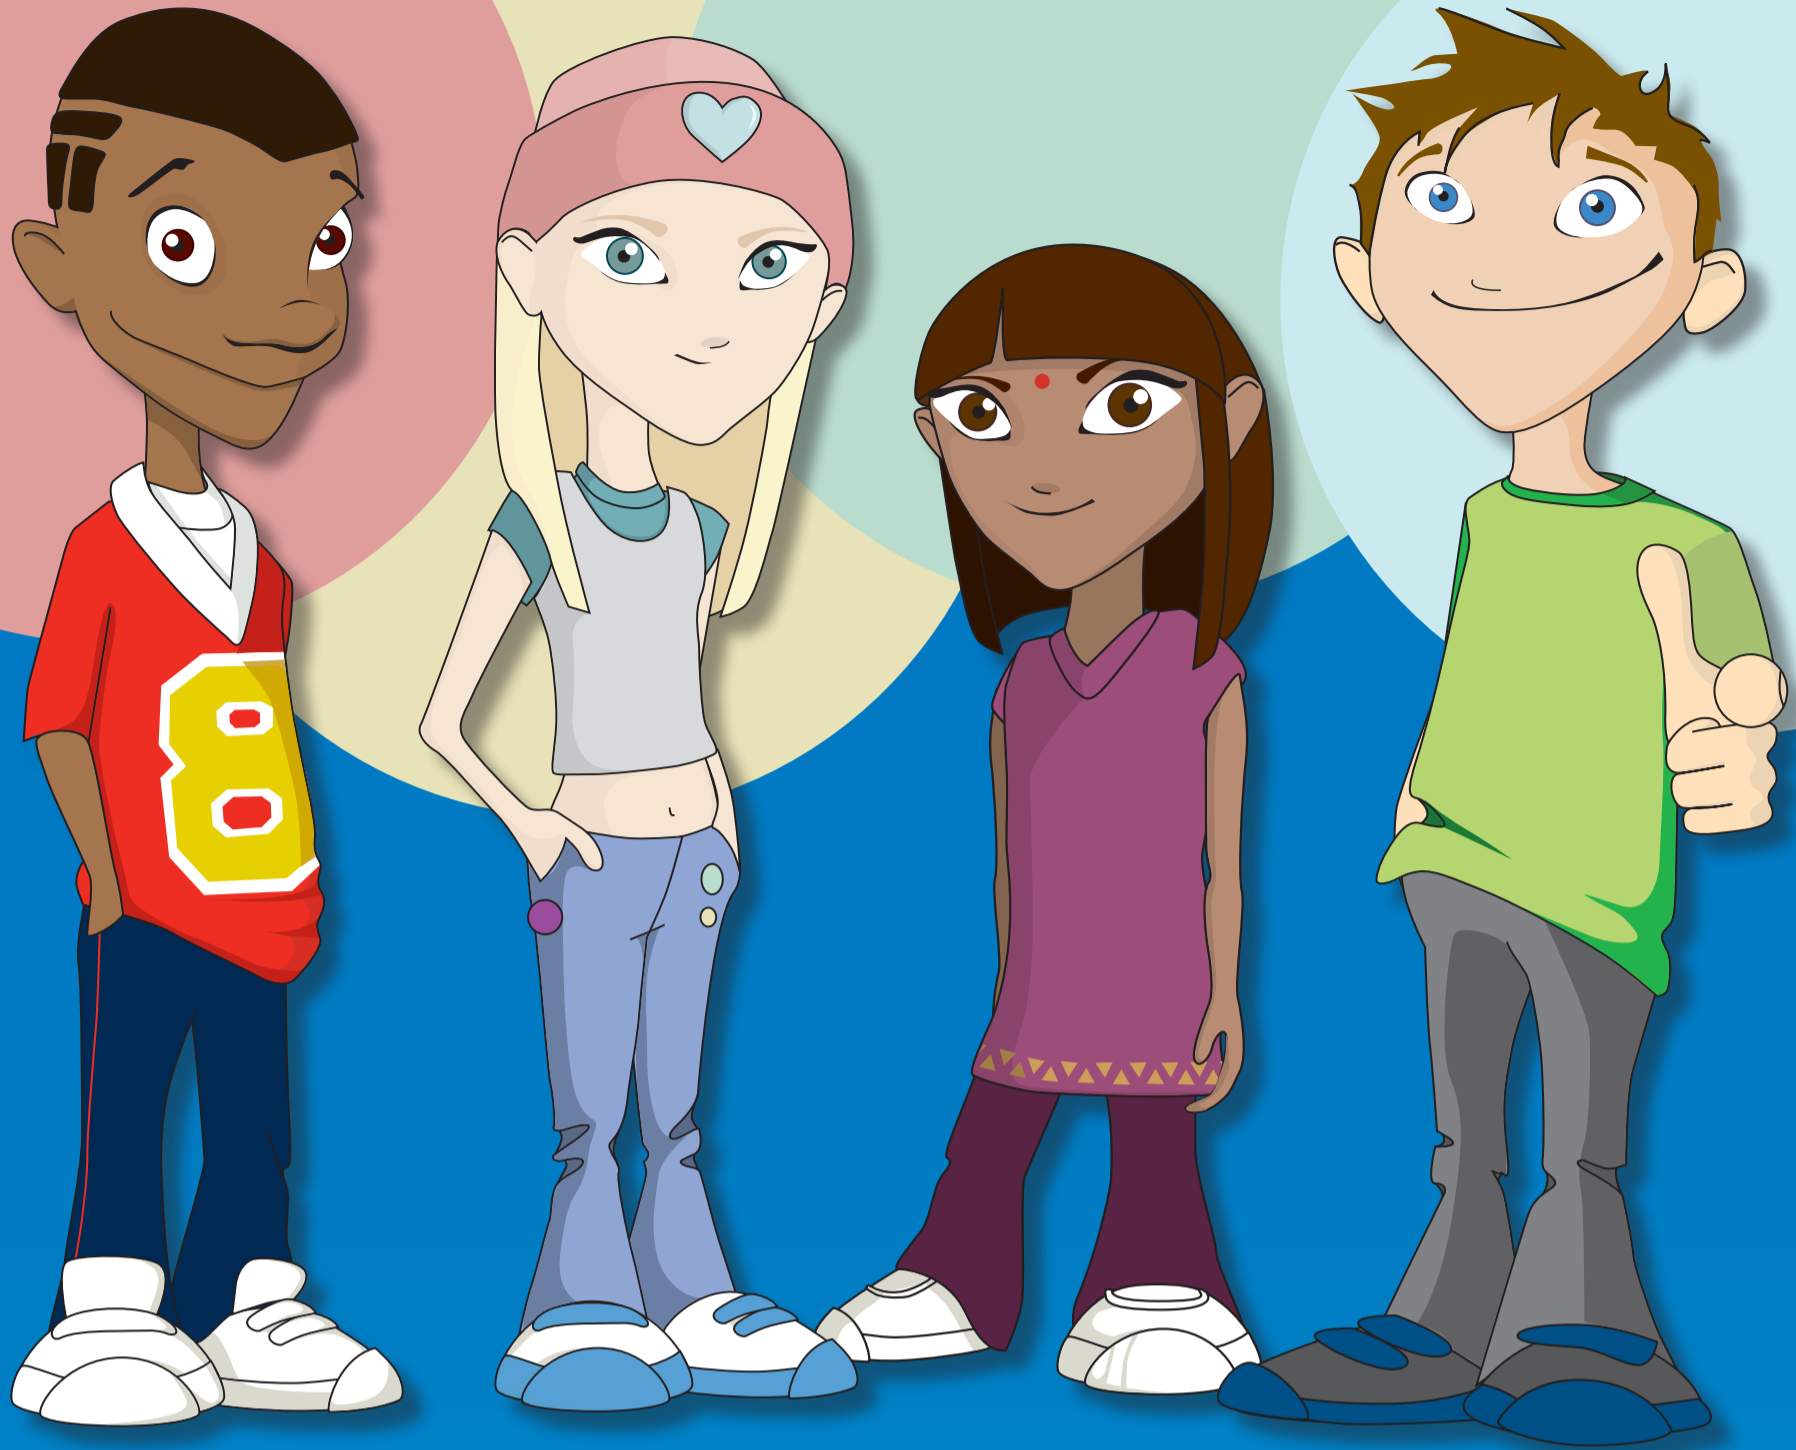

Remember: you still have the right to your own life, to have free time and the chance to do well in your studies.

If you would like to talk to someone about your caring role you can contact:

Liverpool
City Council

Believe in children Barnardo's
North West

NONE OF THESE STUDENTS HANDED IN WORK THIS WEEK.

One of them didn't because their dad has been taken into hospital again and there is no-one else to look after their brother.

SOUND LIKE YOU?

You're not the only one. There are 175,000 young people in the UK who care for a family member. There could be up to 30 in this school.

You might be worried about letting people know what is going on at home. But there are plenty of people who understand why young people take up a caring role and know that you may want to carry on.

Remember: you still have the right to your own life, to have free time and the chance to do well in your studies.

If you would like to talk to someone about your caring role you can contact:

Liverpool
City Council

Believe in children
Barnardo's
North West

NONE OF THESE STUDENTS TURNED UP FOR LAST WEEK'S TRIP.

One of them didn't because their mum has been taken to hospital and they are staying with grandparents 100 miles away.

SOUND LIKE YOU?

You're not the only one. There are 175,000 young people in the UK who care for a family member. There could be up to 30 in this school.

You might be worried about letting people know what is going on at home. But there are plenty of people who understand why young people take up a caring role and know that you may want to carry on.

Remember: you still have the right to your own life, to have free time and the chance to do well in your studies.

If you would like to talk to someone about your caring role you can contact:

Liverpool
City Council

Believe in children
 Barnardo's
North West

ALL OF THESE STUDENTS FELL ASLEEP IN LESSONS THIS WEEK.

One of them had been up all night with their dad who gets depressed.

SOUND LIKE YOU?

You're not the only one. There are 175,000 young people in the UK who care for a family member. There could be up to 30 in this school.

You might be worried about letting people know what is going on at home. But there are plenty of people who understand why young people take up a caring role and know that you may want to carry on.

Remember: you still have the right to your own life, to have free time and the chance to do well in your studies.

If you would like to talk to someone about your caring role you can contact:

Liverpool
City Council

Believe in children
 Barnardo's
North West